Amara Campos, a dedicated nurse in the Oncology department, exemplifies the highest standards of patient care and teamwork. Her consistent willingness to go above and beyond expectations has had a profound impact on both her patients and colleagues. Amara's commitment to her patients is truly remarkable. She has stayed after hours, off the clock, to sit with a patient whose ride had not yet arrived, ensuring they felt safe and cared for during their wait. She has gone the extra mile to arrange transportation for a patient to get home after chemotherapy treatment when the normal services CGH uses were unavailable. She has also recently assisted the family of one of our patients on hospice care on her own time, providing comfort and support. She does all of this out of genuine love and concern for her patients, consistently demonstrating her selflessness and compassion.

Amara's colleagues in the Oncology department also benefit from her exceptional work ethic and supportive nature. She has stepped up to administer chemotherapy on the hospital side after normal hours when additional help was needed. She is ready to lend a hand to anyone in the department, and often does so without even being asked. She constantly has a smile or a laugh to share with everyone, and her joy is contagious. Her skills as a nurse are outstanding, and she regularly share her knowledge with other nurses in training.
